Purpose:

The Chief of Engineers Environmental Advisory Board (EAB) was instituted in 1970 to advise the Chief on national resource management matters. The Board typically meets 2-3 times/year, focusing on a specific topic at each meeting or over a series of meetings. Based on their deliberations, recommendations are provided to the Chief. Recently, the Board was re-energized to focus on strategic matters. IWR leads the technical support team, which also includes HQ and ERDC staff.
